VICE-CHANCELLOR'S REVIEW

I am giving here a brief review of some of the important activities undertaken by this University during the year under report :

The University Department of English has started teaching the courses in a) Commonwealth Literature, b) E. L. T. Methods and Materials, c) Stylistics, d) Theory and Practice in Translation, and e) Comparative Literature : English and Marathi. The freshers in English Department were given a test in English specially designed to assess their language competence. On the basis of the results, tutorial groups were formed with a view to strengthening their English.

An All India Seminar on Shakespeare, Renaissance Drama and Contemporary Thought, sponsored by the University Grants Commission and the British Council was organised by the Department of English in January, 1981. Prof. John Carey of Oxford University, and Dr. James Mulryne of Warwick University, were on the faculty.

The Department of Marathi introduced for the first time courses like Sociology of Literature, Comparative Literature and Aesthetics at the Postgraduate level. The Department has started teaching these courses.

A Seminar on ' Marathi Literature : 1950 to 1975 - ' Forces and Nature ' was organised by the Marathi Department from 22 to 25 August, 1980, in collaboration with Popular Prakashan, Bombay. The Seminar was inaugurated by the eminent social thinker and critic Professor G. B. Sardar.

The University Department of Education has introduced a Diploma Course in Higher Education. This Diploma has been recognised by Government of Maharashtra as training qualification for Junior College Teachers.

Shivaji University and the University of Poona jointly sponsored the 4th Photobiology Symposium which was held at Mahabaleshwar from 14 to 16 April, 1981. The results of P. L. 480 project on Crop Productivity had direct implications for the utilization of salt affected lands, which can be made productive by beet root cultivation. The Demonstration of the experimental plot was done at Ichalkaranji, which marked the beginning of consultancy services the University is contemplating to start in the near future.

An applied component in the form of two special papers of Chemical Engineering has been introduced at M. Sc. in Inorganic Chemistry this year. Now the Department imparts training in Industrial Chemistry in Organic and Inorganic Chemistry branches. A pilot plant laboratory added to the Department will be used for giving training in pilot plant and process plant operations. The Department plans to introduce from next year courses on Environmental Science and Pollution.

CHAPTER II

SIGNIFICANT ACTIVITIES

2.1 University Convocation : The Seventeenth Annual Convocation of the University was held on Friday, the 12th December, 1980 in a specially erected pandal.

The Vice-Chancellor, Shri R. K. Kanbarkar, welcomed the Chief Guest, Dr. Raja Ramanna, Scientific Adviser and Secretary to the Department of Defence Production, Government of India, and other dignitaries. The significance of this Convocation was the conferment of the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters on two distinguished personalities of this region, namely, Shri Madhavrao Bagal and Shri Dhananjayrao Keer.

While introducing the Chief Guest to the audience the Vice-Chancellor eulogized the eminent scientist as "the master mind behind the successful explosion of nuclear device in Rajasthan a few years back". The Vice-Chancellor also expressed the immense gratitude of the University authorities towards him for having spared his precious time for the function.

The Vice-Chancellor gave a brief historical account of the University from its inception to the present-day. Quoting comparative figures, he pointed out that the University, with only 33 colleges and 14,000 students at the beginning, has now 88 affiliated colleges, over 50,000 students and a whole complex of buildings on its sprawling campus. The Vice-Chancellor said that the Shivaji University is the culmination of the great drive to make education a tool to overcome economic and social backwardness of the region, launched by the great social reformers of Maharashtra—Mahatma Phule, Rajarshi Shahu, Dr. Ambedkar and Karmaveer Bhaurao Patil.

The various activities undertaken on the campus of the University, such as Earn and Learn Scheme, National Service Scheme, Adoption of Villages, Extra-Mural Board which provide a strong fillip to the students in one form or the other and also orient them towards organized social work, were specially mentioned by the Vice-Chancellor as modes of channelising the energy of the youth.

The achievements of the University in sports were mentioned by the Vice-Chancellor. He pointed out that the University had a glorious record in the academic field also. The projects undertaken by the Department of Botany under the PL 480 scheme from the Indian Council of Agricultural Research and that from the Department of Science and Technology, and the project, "On Infra-red Sensors" of the Physics Department, aided by the University Grants Commission were quoted by the Vice-Chancellor as examples of the many research projects in progress in the University.

About the future plans and development of the University, the Vice-Chancellor informed the Chief Guest that plans aiming at academic development have been submitted to the University Grants Commission for inclusion in the VI Plan Period allocation. The Vice-Chancellor also mentioned that two new Departments of Statistics and Geology were proposed to be started from the next academic year. He also mentioned in passing the schemes of continuing Education, University Sub-Centre at Solapur etc.

While enlisting the achievements of the Chief Guest, Dr. Raja Ramanna, the Vice-Chancellor described the nuclear explosion in the Rajasthan desert as worthy of being, "written in letters of gold in the annals of India". He further said, "It was on that day that India made her presence felt with a bang in the Rajasthan desert. Though it was an underground explosion, it produced a harmless political fall-out which has put India on the nuclear map of the world, making it the sixth super power of the world. One of the men who master-minded that explosion—nay, I had almost said, the brain behind it—is amongst us today and we regard it as our great privilege and fortune to have such a mastermind for our Chief Guest." The Vice-Chancellor then mentioned the academic achievements of and important positions held by Dr. Raja Ramanna.

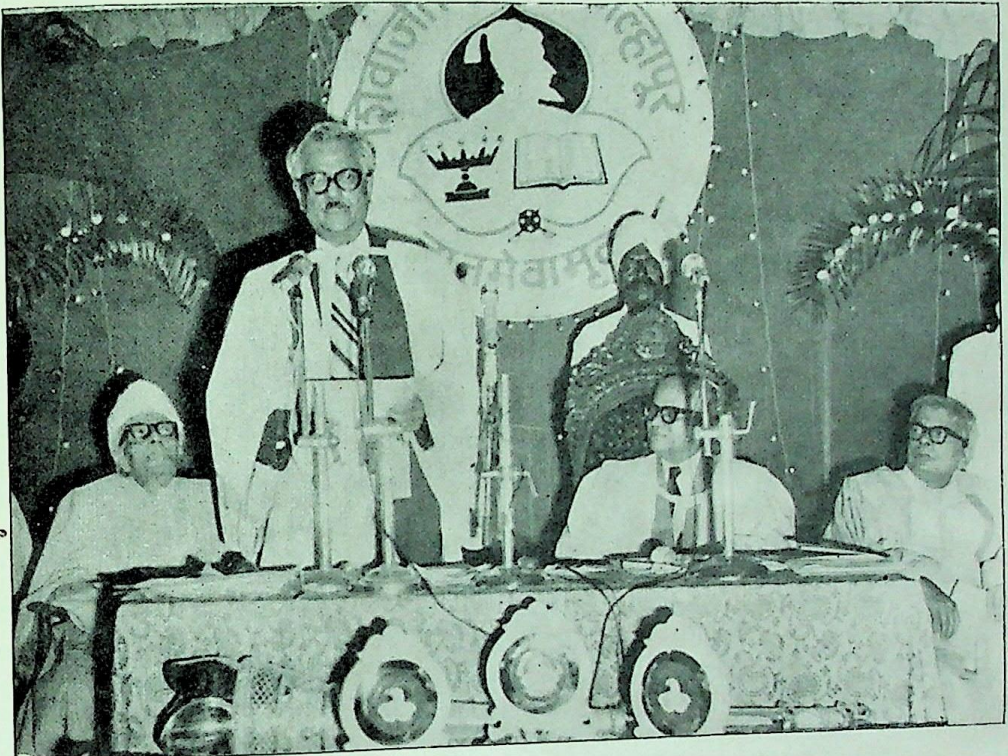

On the occasion of conferment of the honorary degree of Dr. of Letters on Shri Madhavrao Bagal and Shri Dhananjay Keer, the Vice-Chancellor extolled the two personalities and took a bird's eye view of the services rendered by them to the society. About Shri Keer he said that Shri Keer was an ideal writer and an erudite scholar who had written inspiring biographies of the great personalities who fought for Independence and spent their lives for the reconstruction of the country. The Vice-Chancellor made a special mention of the fact that throughout his life despite adverse conditions, Shri Keer had served the nation and the literary world incessantly by his writings. The biographies written by him during the last thirty years, he said, were simply superb. Shri Keer has to his credit sixteen biographies in English and Marathi written during a period of thirty years. Shri Keer, said the Vice-Chancellor, never forms any bias, nor does he lose his objectivity under the influence of any one whose biography he writes. Every statement that he makes is backed by concrete evidence. Howsoever minute the details may be, to ascertain the truth he would go deep at the root of the matter. The Vice-Chancellor made special mention, among others, of the biographies of Mahatma Phule, Rajarshi Shahu, Dr. Ambedkar etc. written by Shri Keer in English, thereby facilitating the foreigners to understand these great sons of the soil.

Speaking about Shri Madhavrao Bagal, the Vice-Chancellor said that the felicitation of Madhavrao Bagal was, in other words, a felicitation of the freedom struggle itself. Shri Bagal, said the Vice-Chancellor, completed his studies in Painting and Sculpture in the J. J. School of Arts, Bombay with First Class Scholarship. But he had in his hand both brush and pen as well. During the erstwhile Kolhapur State, the state subject was very loyal to the Ruler and it was very difficult to instil in their minds the need to fight for national freedom. It was Shri Madhavrao Bagal who inculcated the spirit of independence among the people, for which he was punished with rigorous imprisonment. Shri Madhavrao Bagal was jailed for leading the agitation during the reorganization of States and also during the struggle for the liberation of Goa. As a social reformer he led many movements such as entry of untouchables in the temples, community-meals, an untouchable graduate being made president of the Kolhapur Municipality, and arranging inter-caste marriages. Shri Madhavrao Bagal was the President of the All India Conference of Satya Shodhak Samaj held at Satara in 1958. He was the founder of the Marxists' Movement in Kolhapur and also of the Labour Union in 1931 and was the founder-President of the Labour Union of the Shahu Chhatrapati Mills at Kolhapur.

The Vice-Chancellor, while eulogizing Shri Bagal, said that even with all the stresses and strains Shri Bagal has maintained his devotion to art. The oil-portraits drawn by him have been widely acclaimed by the eminent artists as excellent pieces of art. He has donated all his articles to educational institutions like Shivaji University and to the Kolhapur Town Hall Museum. He has been equally famous as a writer and/as an editor, his publications totalling to 55. Shri Bagal was honoured with the title of "Padma Bhushan" by the President of India.

In his Convocation Address, the Chief Guest, Dr. Raja Ramanna, first congratulated the recipients of the Degrees and while explaining the miraculous strides made by science in all fields, said, "A comparatively small number of physical laws seem sufficient to explain a great part of fundamental behaviour, right from the very edges of the outer universe to the minute regions of the atom and the atomic nucleus. This is a great achievement considering the success in explaining such a vast array of facts about the universe, with very small inputs." Dr. Ramanna admitted that, "while we can admire ourselves for having created a 'Civilization' of great sensitivity," expressed the fear that, "we must take note of the fact that this very civilization of ours has led to much that has a capacity for self-destruction. As examples, we can refer to the various stupid types of superstitions, false intuition, etc. If you ask me why our country, which should be the finest in the world, has brought itself into a position where it is usually shown among the lowest in the world, I can only point out to the fact that individually and collectively, it is our false intuition that has been responsible."

Dr. Ramanna illustrated the tremendous capacities of human brain and said, "a fully developed human brain has one remarkable capacity and that is, within a certain framework it can question its own activity and rationality. If, at any stage, we have come to a position when we cannot ask questions about ourselves or about our society, we come to a state where we are no longer worthy of being called human beings."

About the purpose of University education Dr. Ramanna said, "the very purpose of University education though it comes at a late stage on our programming period, is to encourage functions of constructive self-questioning....The main function of a University is to make the mind think correctly within the framework of a scientific temper, a phrase so often referred to by the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru".

Dr. Ramanna stressed the need for stabilizing society as, otherwise, he feared, "there will be a tremendous outburst of crime, cruelty and corruption. As the older methods of maintaining social stability will no longer help in reducing the evil manifestations of disequilibrium", Dr. Ramanna suggested here, "one very good solution was offered to us 2,500 years ago by the Buddha himself who recognised that there is mind and the mind requires meditation and concentration. With this and the study of sciences one can retain a certain objective equilibrium of the mind which can include a life full of humanity, a life full of reason, and a life without violence and cruelty. In recent times we have been building too much of our society based on falsehood. We have to create an atmosphere where falsehood would quickly be detected and exposed. You will see that this is not very different from what Mahatma Gandhi used to say about non-violence and truth."

Dr. Ramanna concluded his speech with thanks to the Vice-Chancellor for the opportunity given to him to express his thoughts on the occasion of the Convocation.

6.6 Programme Activities : Activities for downtrodden class of the society and the welfare programmes for women and children were undertaken. The activities of International Year for Child (IYC) were not only followed up but were intensified. The following were the main activities during the year 1980-81 :

Programmes for Children : Considering that the children from the lower strata of the society are deprived of good schooling and similar facilities, some N.S.S. units (about 10) initiated Balwadis for such students. Remand Homes have also been adopted for the celebration of Balak Din festivals and National Days. Local resources were raised to distribute sweets and toys and teaching material. Our N.S.S. students from Science Faculty imparted science training to the students of 5th, 6th and 7th Stds., where science apparatus were not available. This programme proved to be very fruitful as the students started taking active part in the experiments. A ' Science Fair ' was also held at Solapur and about 1,000 school-going children were involved in the experiments. Our girl unit of a college from Sangli (100 girls) have undertaken welfare activities in the Ashram for orphan girls.

Programmes for Women : Efforts were made to educate women in rural areas and slums about their rights and the opportunities for them through special lectures and exhibition. Two Mahila Mandals have been registered. Camps were held at Satara, Wai and Phaltan in collaboration with Bhagini Nivedita Institute for helping the women. One extensive exhibition showing a review of "Women Liberation Movement" was also arranged. Small scale enterprises are also being started to help the needy women. Through Haladi-Kunku and other festivals, women gatherings were organized.

Health Programmes : The N. S. S. volunteers from our medical colleges were used as resource persons. They visited different camps and did medical check-ups. The Kurduwadi N. S. S. Unit adopted 4 villages for complete medical surveys and provision of health facilities with the help of Zilla Parishad, Solapur and other agencies. The students from the medical colleges adopted certain families for health facilities and prepared 'family folders' recording diseases and treatment thereon. For children, Poleo and Triple Antigen vaccinations and dosages were given. Eye operation camps and Animal husbandry camps (one day each) were organised in rural areas. Two colleges have started a novel project of ' Drug Bank '. Drugs which remain unused with the patients are collected and distributed under doctors' advice to needy and poor patients, especially from the slums.

Special Drives : From time to time, certain drives were undertaken by the NSS Units : i) The most important of all the drives was the blood donation drive. About 1000 bottles (300 cc) were donated in different drives. Further, a list of volunteers was also prepared according to their blood groups. ii) Tree Plantation drives were undertaken by 40 colleges. Digging pits, plantation of trees, guarding and watering them were the main activities. With the help of a school, a nursery of 25,000 sapplings was raised and through the remuneration thereof, school building was completed. iii) Prohibition propaganda was done by almost all the colleges. Some colleges arranged 'Dindis' to propogate the evils of liquor addiction. The State Prohibition Department helped the N. S. S. units in these campaigns. Similarly, campaigns against the dowry system were also organised.

Other Activities : Other N. S. S. activities included the eradication of parthenium, arranging lectures for the farmers, socio-economic surveys of the slums and the villages, holding vocational guidance courses, arranging exhibitions on food adulteration, propogation of small savings scheme and establishment of 'Zunka-Bhakar Stalls at the time of annual fairs at Pandharpur and Sangola. Pilgrims from different parts of the State of Maharashtra were thus served. Lectures, film shows, exhibitions and cattle health camps were frequently arranged in the villages for the benefit of the farmers. Construction of play-grounds and roads were of significance in the remote villages. In ten schools sports festivals were also organised. Thus the needy sections of the masses i. e. women, children and farmers received service due to the regular efforts of N. S. S. volunteers throughout the year 1980-81.

N. S. S. Central Camp for girls : It was observed that the enrolment of women in the N. S. S. was only 15% of the total. With a view to training women volunteers for different social projects - especially useful for women in rural areas - a 5-day Camp was organised exclusively for girls at village Mhaisal in Sangli District from 22nd to 26th October, 1980. The camp was attended by 150 girls from 50 colleges. Kanya Mahavidyalaya of Sangli was the host college.

A socio-economic survey of the 'Co-operative Movement and its Impact on the Welfare of Women' was conducted. Another survey on 'Epidemics among the Children' was also conducted. A thorough pre-survey training was given to the girls by resource persons and conclusions were drawn. Slum cleaning, personal contacts and cultural programmes were also arranged. A course in 'handicrafting' was also held to teach the volunteers small skills which could be further imparted to the village women. It is noteworthy that the camp activities and the entire schedule was competently managed by the girl-volunteers of the N. S. S.
